Swift Foods

1. Introduction:

   Swift Foods is a company that sells foods precooked where it will be ready after 3 minutes in the microwave. The user has the option to buy the foods individually or subscribe to a monthly payment for a certain amount of foods.

2. Design and Implementation:

   Swift Foods turned out basically just like my design, however, there were a few things I had to change. Text color, Button colors, and the way the forms looked changed due to readability. On the home page, I chose to animate the logo, text, and button. I used many bootstrap components such as Jumbotron, Button, Navbar, Card, and Form. The reason why I chose these components is due to design being super simple and was easy to use animate these components.

3. Conclusions

   This project taught me a lot such as reading documentation, how to manipulate pre-built components, and pre-defined sizing classes. Swift Food's best feature is the attention catching animations.
